

Joe Peter Project: 683-S2

|       |           |                                                                                                                                             |
|-------|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 00:00 | John Marr | JM: how do you say there were five men/// there were five men[Page 22]                                                                  |
| 00:19 | Joe Peter | JP: qwinəm/ qwinəm  mæn  {man}                                                                                                              |
| 00:24 | John Marr | JM: how do you say it?                                                                                                                      |
| 00:27 | Joe Peter | JP: qwinəm man                                                                                                                              |
| 00:32 | John Marr | JM: every morning                                                                                                                           |
| 00:37 | Joe Peter | JP: k <sup>h</sup> anawi tənəs-san                                                                                                          |
| 00:39 | John Marr | JM: {waX}/ the word for every morning is {waX}// you ever hear that before {waX}? [see interlinear on page 22]                              |
| 00:47 | Joe Peter | JP: <<hmm// hmm// that's not such a word I've heard...>>                                                                                    |
| 01:14 | John Marr | JM: once upon a time [Page 31]                                                                                                              |
| 01:23 | Joe Peter | JP: anqati lili                                                                                                                             |
| 01:28 | John Marr | JM: there were five brothers                                                                                                                |
| 01:30 | Joe Peter | JP: qwinəm aw                                                                                                                               |
| 01:32 | John Marr | the older ones went hunting elk every day                                                                                                   |
| 01:36 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk ulman aw k <sup>h</sup> anawi ʔaska ʔatwa-nanich mulak/k <sup>h</sup> anawi-san                                                |
| 01:42 | John Marr | JM: they left the youngest one at home                                                                                                      |
| 01:44 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk tənəs aw yaka kwansəm miʔayt k <sup>h</sup> upa-haws                                                                               |
| 01:48 | John Marr | their house was full of meat and tallow                                                                                                     |
| 01:51 | Joe Peter | JP: k <sup>h</sup> anawi k <sup>h</sup> anawi ʔas.. ʔaska haws/ <pa..> k <sup>h</sup> əltəs patʔ/k <sup>h</sup> anawi iʔwəli/ hayu klis |
| 02:00 | John Marr | one time the youngest brother felt lonesome                                                                                                 |
| 02:03 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt t <sup>h</sup> aym/ ixt/ ixt-san yaka tənəs-aw yaka tənəs[unfinished]                                                           |
| 02:16 | John Marr | and said                                                                                                                                    |
| 02:17 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa                                                                                                                               |
| 02:19 | John Marr | JM: oh I wish you would come/ the glutton                                                                                                   |
| 02:23 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> ata/ q <sup>h</sup> ata pi wik yaka chaku                                                                                |
| 02:30 | John Marr | JM: and eat all the meat                                                                                                                    |
|       |           | JP: ukuk skukúm <<djəs/dais>> yaka mək <sup>h</sup> mək k <sup>h</sup> anawi ukuk                                                           |

|       |           |                                                                                                                                                             |
|-------|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | iṭwəli [what is dais(h)??]                                                                                                                                |
| 02:37 | John Marr | JM: four days he continued to say so                                                                                                                        |
| 02:40 | Joe Peter | JP:  lakt  [lakit] san yaka wawa kakwa                                                                                                                      |
| 02:43 | John Marr | JM: then he heard a noise like the shaking of rattles at the door                                                                                           |
| 02:46 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka kəmtəks ikta <<ya/(ha)yu>> wawa k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk/yaka lapot                                                                        |
| 02:52 | John Marr | JM: now a person appeared                                                                                                                                   |
| 02:54 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku uk tilixam/ <yaka> ɬax                                                                                                                  |
| 02:58 | John Marr | JM: he was so large                                                                                                                                         |
| 03:00 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka hayásh                                                                                                                                             |
| 03:02 | John Marr | JM: that his blanket consisted of two elk skins                                                                                                             |
| 03:05 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka hayash/ hayash yaka iṭwəli// <mam.. ma..> makwstmulak yaka skin                                                                                |
| 03:15 | John Marr | JM: it had a fringe of elk hoofs                                                                                                                            |
| 03:18 | Joe Peter | JP: yaxka k <sup>h</sup> anawi// <yaka> k <sup>h</sup> anaw(i) <mamuk ɬush k <sup>h</sup> apaukuk/> mulak yaka lip <sup>h</sup> iye [ENDED HERE 6/9/25] |
| 03:30 | Joe Peter | JM: he entered                                                                                                                                              |
| 03:32 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku-haws                                                                                                                                         |
| 03:34 | John Marr | JM: sat down                                                                                                                                                |
| 03:35 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka miɬayt                                                                                                                                             |
| 03:36 | John Marr | JM: and said                                                                                                                                                |
| 03:37 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa                                                                                                                                               |
| 03:38 | John Marr | JM: oh grandson                                                                                                                                             |
| 03:40 | Joe Peter | JP: oooo nayka chupa tənəs-man                                                                                                                              |
| 03:43 | John Marr | JM: I am hungry                                                                                                                                             |
| 03:44 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka hayash ulu                                                                                                                                        |
| 03:46 | John Marr | JM: the boy arose                                                                                                                                           |
| 03:47 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk tənəs-man yaka mitxwit                                                                                                                             |
| 03:49 | John Marr | JM: and gave him some meat and tallow                                                                                                                       |
| 03:52 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka patɬach yaxka tənəs-iṭwəli <pi {uh}/uk> klis                                                                                                       |
| 03:55 | John Marr | JM: when he looked the.. the stranger had eaten it all                                                                                                      |
| 03:59 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka nanich ukuk xluyma tilixam yaka mək <sup>h</sup> mək k <sup>h</sup> anawi                                                                          |
| 04:03 | John Marr | JM: he gave him more                                                                                                                                        |

|                                  |                                          |                                                                                                                 |
|----------------------------------|------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                  |                                          | JP: yaka patṭach yaḅka  hayaw  [hayu]                                                                           |
| 04:07                            | John Marr                                | JM: and when he looked again it had all disappeared                                                             |
| 04:09                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka nanich wəḅt kʰanawi yaka chaku-hilu/ yaka məkʰmək kʰanawi                                              |
| 04:13                            | John Marr                                | JM: the whole day long he gave him meat and tallow                                                              |
| 04:16                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: kʰanawi san yaka patṭach yaḅka kakwa iṭwəli pi klis                                                         |
| 04:21                            | John Marr                                | JM: in the evening                                                                                              |
| 04:22                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka chaku tənəs-pulakʰli                                                                                   |
| 04:25                            | John Marr                                | JM: his brothers came home                                                                                      |
| 04:26                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka aw kʰanawi chaku k'ilapay                                                                              |
| 04:29                            | John Marr                                | JM: and brought a fresh supply of meat                                                                          |
| 04:31                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ṭaska mamuk/ ṭaska mamuk-chaku k'ilapay chxi iṭwəli/  hayaw  [hayu]                                         |
| 04:37                            | John Marr                                | JM: when they saw what had happend they said to him                                                             |
| 04:39                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ṭaska nanich qʰata yaka chaku kʰupa haws yaka wawa kʰupa ṭas../ kʰupa yaḅka [Note: clear uvular on "qʰata"] |
| 04:45                            | John Marr                                | JM: what did you do                                                                                             |
| 04:0404:46 | Joe PeterJoe Peter | JP: ikta alta mayka mamuk                                                                                       |
| 04:48                            | John Marr                                | JM: how did the evil spirit come here                                                                           |
| 04:51                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: qʰata ukuk qʰata ukuk mashachi yaka chaku yakwa mashachi skukúm                                             |
| 04:55                            | John Marr                                | JM: the boy replied                                                                                             |
| 04:57                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ukuk tənəs-man yaka wawa                                                                                    |
| 04:59                            | John Marr                                | JM: I felt lonesome                                                                                             |
| 05:01                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ooo// <nayka/yaka> kwanisəm kʰupit-ixt                                                                      |
| 05:10                            | John Marr                                | JM: and I wished would come                                                                                     |
| 05:13                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: nayka <aa/haya> təmtəm/ ṭush yaka chaku                                                                     |
| 05:16                            | John Marr                                | JM: and eat all the meat                                                                                        |
| 05:18                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: pi məkʰmək kʰanawi ukuk iṭwəli                                                                              |
| 05:21                            | John Marr                                | JM: oh you fool                                                                                                 |
| 05:22                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ooo/ mashachi mayka                                                                                         |
| 05:25                            | John Marr                                | JM: certainly the monster will eat us                                                                           |
| 05:28                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaḅka ukuk skukúm yaka məkʰmək kʰanawi nsayka                                                               |

|       |           |                                                                                                            |
|-------|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | JM: they fed/ they fed him all night until sunrise                                                         |
| 05:35 | Joe Peter | JP: ʈaska patʈach yaṣka məkʰmək kʰanawi pulakʰli/ pi yaka chaku-san                                        |
| 05:41 | John Marr | JM: they continued to feed him the whole day                                                               |
| 05:44 | Joe Peter | JP: ya patʈach yaka məkʰmək/ kʰanawi-san wəxt                                                              |
| 05:48 | John Marr | JM: then the meat was at an end                                                                            |
| 05:51 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku-hilu ukuk {meat} ukuk iʈwəli kʰanawi                                                   |
| 05:56 | John Marr | JM: the younger brother said to the monster                                                                |
| 05:59 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk tənəs-aw yaka wawa chi-aaalta/ kʰupa ukuk skukúm                                                  |
| 06:04 | John Marr | JM: what will our grandfather eat next                                                                     |
| 06:07 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta aʈqi nisayka chupʰa yaka məkʰmək                                                                  |
| 06:11 | John Marr | JM: there are only skins left                                                                              |
| 06:13 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit al.. kʰupit alta kʰupa yaka skin {left} kʰupa-uk kʰanawi                                        |
| 06:18 | John Marr | JM: what shall I eat grandchildren                                                                         |
| 06:20 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta alta nayka məkʰmək/ chupʰa-tənəs-man kʰanawi                                                      |
| 06:25 | John Marr | JM: now there are only skins and you                                                                       |
| 05:32 | John Marr |                                                                                                            |
| 06:28 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit skins alta <wəxt/ukuk> pi nisayka                                                               |
| 06:31 | John Marr | JM: what does he say                                                                                       |
| 06:33 | Joe Peter | JP: <<kʰupit yaka skin alta pi nisayka ..... >> [audio muffled]                                            |
| 06:47 | John Marr | JM: the mon../ let's see where was I../ now there are only skins and you he says                           |
| 06:58 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit yaka skin alta ukuk kʰanawi <alta misayka> [misayka? nisayka?]                                  |
| 07:03 | John Marr | JM: speak to him again                                                                                     |
| 07:05 | Joe Peter | JP: wawa kʰupa yaṣka wəxt                                                                                  |
| 07:08 | John Marr | JM: what will our grandfather eat next                                                                     |
| 07:11 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta <<ikta>> aʈqi yaka [makʰmak] [məkʰmək] ukuk nisayka chupʰa [Note: check pronunciation of məkʰmək] |
| 07:15 | John Marr | JM: there are only skins left                                                                              |
| 07:17 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit yaka skins alta ukuk                                                                            |
| 07:20 | John Marr | JM: what shall I eat grandchildren now there are only skins and you                                        |
|       |           | JP: ikta alta nisayka məkʰmək {uh}/ <nayka/yaka>                                                           |

|              |                  |                                                                                           |
|--------------|------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|              |                  | chup <sup>h</sup> a-tənas k <sup>h</sup> anawi/ k <sup>h</sup> upit skinz alta pi misayka |
| 07:34        | John Marr        | JM: now they began to understand him                                                      |
| 07:36 | Joe Peter | JP: alta †aska kəmtəks yaḵka/ wawa                                                        |
| 07:40        | John Marr        | JM: they boiled the skins                                                                 |
| 07:41 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mamuk-lip <sup>h</sup> lip ukuk skinz k <sup>h</sup> anawi                      |
| 07:45        | John Marr        | JM: and gave them to him                                                                  |
| 07:47 | Joe Peter | JP: <pi ya> pat†ach yaḵka ukuk [ENDED HERE ON 6/16/25]                                    |
| 07:48        | John Marr        | JM: for a long time he continues to eat                                                   |
| 07:51 | Joe Peter | JP: lili yaka mək <sup>h</sup> mək kakwa                                                  |
| 07:54        | John Marr        | JM: and it grew dark again                                                                |
| 07:56 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku-pulak <sup>h</sup> li wəḵt                                                 |
| 07:58        | John Marr        | JM: then they dug a hole in the ground [pg. 32]                                           |
| 08:00 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mamuk-†xwap k <sup>h</sup> upa  ileyʔi  [iliʔi]                                 |
| 08:03        | John Marr        | JM: and sharpened some arrow wood                                                         |
| 08:05 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mamuk/ †aska mamuk-†ush/ kalaytən-stik                                          |
| 08:12        | John Marr        | JM: which they placed upright                                                             |
| 08:26 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mamuk-mi†ayt k <sup>h</sup> upá                                                 |
| 08:17        | John Marr        | JM: at the place where they used to sleep                                                 |
| 08:20 | Joe Peter | JP: k <sup>h</sup> upá anqati †aska/ musum                                                |
| 08:24        | John Marr        | JM: then they escaped through the hole which they had dug                                 |
| 08:26 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska †atwa kikwəli <k <sup>h</sup> >upa [k <sup>h</sup> upa] ukuk †xwap †aska mamuk  |
| 08:30        | John Marr        | JM: at a distance from the house                                                          |
| 08:32 | Joe Peter | JP: saya k <sup>h</sup> upa haws                                                          |
| 08:34        | John Marr        | JM: they come out of the hole                                                             |
| 08:35 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska chaku-†aḵ k <sup>h</sup> upa <ukuk> ixt †xwap                                   |
| 08:39        | John Marr        | JM: they left their dog/ to the hole                                                      |
| 08:42 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mash †aska k <sup>h</sup> amuksh k <sup>h</sup> upá ukuk †xwap                  |
| 08:45        | John Marr        | JM: and said to her                                                                       |
| 08:46 | Joe Peter | JP: <wawa> k <sup>h</sup> upa yáḵka                                                       |
| 08:48        | John Marr        | JM: if the monster asks which way we have gone                                            |
| 08:52 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk skukúm yaka/ tiki kəmtəks q <sup>h</sup> a nsayka †atwa                          |
| 08:57        | John Marr        | JM: point your head the other way                                                         |

|                                  |                                          |                                                                                |
|----------------------------------|------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                                  |                                          | JP: yaka wawa yaḵka/ "saya yawa"                                               |
| 09:03                            | John Marr                                | JM: and call out                                                               |
| 09:04                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: wawa hayash                                                                |
| 09:06                            | John Marr                                | JM: then they ran away                                                         |
| 09:07                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: †aska <wawa> †aska  kʰulí  [kʰuli]/ saya                                   |
| 09:12                            | John Marr                                | JM: when the day began to dawn                                                 |
| 09:14                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka chaku-†aḵ alta uk-san                                                 |
| 09:18                            | John Marr                                | JM: the monster awoke                                                          |
| 09:19                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: ukuk skukúm yaka/  milay  [mi†ayt] [Note: possible distortion on "mi†ayt"] |
| 09:23                            | John Marr                                | JM: and made a jump at where he believed the brothers to be                    |
| 09:28                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka supna k../ kʰupá kʰupa yaka kəmtəks qʰa ukuk/ kʰanawi aw †aska        |
| 09:34                            | John Marr                                | JM: then he fell on the sharp sticks                                           |
| 09:36                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka t'†uḵ kʰupa ukuk/ [JM interrupts] <{sharp en(d)}> stik                |
| 09:41                            | John Marr                                | JM: which pierced his belly                                                    |
| 08:5909:44 | Joe PeterJoe Peter | JP: <<tə†'†i>> †atwa/ kikwəli kʰupa yaka  k'watin  [k'wə†ʰin]                  |
| 09:48                            | John Marr                                | JM: he pulled them out of his body                                             |
| 09:51                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: <yaka> mamuk-†aḵ kʰupa <ukuk> i†wəli                                       |
| 09:53                            | John Marr                                | JM: he broke them                                                              |
| 09:55                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka mamuk-†uk †aska                                                       |
| 09:57                            | John Marr                                | JM: and he saw that the brothers had escaped through the hole                  |
| 10:00                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka nanich ukuk aw †aska kʰanawi †aska/ kʰuli kʰupa uk †xwap              |
| 10:05                            | John Marr                                | JM: he followed them                                                           |
| 10:06                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yawa yaka †atwa/ nanich †aska                                              |
| 10:10                            | John Marr                                | JM: when he came to the outlet of the hole                                     |
| 10:12                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka chaku-†aḵ kʰupa ukuk †xwap                                            |
| 10:15                            | John Marr                                | JM: he found the dog                                                           |
| 10:17                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka t'†ap ukuk kʰamuksh                                                   |
| 10:19                            | John Marr                                | JM: and asked her                                                              |
| 10:20                     | Joe Peter                         | JP: yaka wawa                                                                  |

|       |           |                                                                                                                                                        |
|-------|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | JM: which way did they go                                                                                                                              |
| 10:24 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> a ɬaska ɬatwa                                                                                                                       |
| 10:27 | John Marr | JM: she pointed her head                                                                                                                               |
| 10:29 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka/// yaka/// mash yaka latet [Note: possibly clean/boost?]                                                                                      |
| 10:46 | John Marr | JM: it was in a direction that they had not taken                                                                                                      |
| 10:57 | Joe Peter | JP: saya k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk q <sup>h</sup> a ɬaska ɬatwa [Note: clear uvular]                                                                     |
| 11:05 | John Marr | JM: he pursued them                                                                                                                                    |
| 11:07 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka ɬatwa k <sup>h</sup> upá ukuk skukúm                                                                                                          |
| 11:09 | John Marr | JM: but after a while                                                                                                                                  |
| 11:11 | Joe Peter | JP: aɬqi [Note: clear uvular]                                                                                                                          |
| 11:12 | John Marr | JM: when he did not find their tracks                                                                                                                  |
| 11:14 | Joe Peter | JP: wik yaka t'ɬap ɬaska  lep <sup>h</sup> iye  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi] k <sup>h</sup> anawi                                                             |
| 11:17 | John Marr | JM: he turned back                                                                                                                                     |
| 11:18 | Joe Peter | JP: <yaka> k'ilapay wəxt                                                                                                                               |
| 11:20 | John Marr | JM: then again he asked the dog                                                                                                                        |
| 10:23 | Joe Peter | JP: alta wəxt alta wəxt yaka/ wawa q <sup>h</sup> a ɬaska ɬatwa/ k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk k <sup>h</sup> amuksh                                         |
| 11:30 | John Marr | JM: which way did they go                                                                                                                              |
| 11:31 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> a ɬaska ɬatwa k <sup>h</sup> anawi                                                                                                  |
| 11:34 | John Marr | JM: she pointed her head                                                                                                                               |
| 11:37 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mash yaka latet                                                                                                                               |
| 11:40 | John Marr | JM: but it was in a direction that they had not taken                                                                                                  |
| 11:42 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka ɬax wik-saya/ saya k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk q <sup>h</sup> a ɬaska ɬatwa                                                                       |
| 11:47 | John Marr | JM: he chased them                                                                                                                                     |
| 11:50 | Joe Peter | JP: yakaaa mamuk-kuli ɬaska                                                                                                                            |
| 11:53 | John Marr | JM: but he did not find their tracks again                                                                                                             |
| 11:55 | Joe Peter | JP: pi wik yaka t'ɬap wəxt/ yaka  lep <sup>h</sup> iye  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi]                                                                          |
| 11:58 | John Marr | JM: three times he did this                                                                                                                            |
| 12:01 | Joe Peter | JP: ɬun t <sup>h</sup> aym yaka mamuk kakwa                                                                                                            |
| 12:04 | John Marr | JM: finally he found their tracks                                                                                                                      |
|       |           | JP: aɬqi yaka alta <ukuk> t'ɬap ɬaska  lep <sup>h</sup> iye  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi] [Note: is "ukuk" object of "t'ɬap"? or are we mishearing "ukuk" for |

|                           |                                   |                                                                                                            |
|---------------------------|-----------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                           |                                   | "yaka"?]                                                                                                   |
| 12:13                     | John Marr                         | JM: which he followed                                                                                      |
| 12:14              | Joe Peter                  | JP: alta yaka mamuk-kuli ukuk                                                                              |
| 12:17                     | John Marr                         | JM: he followed them a long distance                                                                       |
| 12:21              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka mamuk-kuli ukuk saya                                                                              |
| 12:24                     | John Marr                         | JM: and the dog began to yell [Note: out of order or added?]                                               |
| 12:28              | Joe Peter                  | JP: ukuk k <sup>h</sup> amuksh yaka hayu-wawa alta hayash-wawa                                             |
| 12:35                     | John Marr                         | JM: he overtook and killed the four oldest brothers                                                        |
| 12:43              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka/ yaka t' <sup>h</sup> ap/ lakit ukuk/ ulman/ [aws] [aw]/ yaka mamuk-miməlust k <sup>h</sup> anawi |
| 12:53                     | John Marr                         | JM: now only one was left                                                                                  |
| 12:55              | Joe Peter                  | JP: k <sup>h</sup> upit ixt alta yaka mi <sup>h</sup> ayt                                                  |
| 12:58                     | John Marr                         | JM: he was the youngest one                                                                                |
| 13:02              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaḵka ukuk tənəs                                                                                       |
| 13:04                     | John Marr                         | JM: he ran on                                                                                              |
| 13:07              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaḵka kuli/ saya                                                                                       |
| 12:1013:09 | Joe PeterJohn Marr | JM: and arrived at a river                                                                                 |
| 13:11              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka chaku-ṭaḵ k <sup>h</sup> upa chək/ hayash-chək                                                    |
| 13:14                     | John Marr                         | JM: where he found an old man                                                                              |
| 13:16              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka t' <sup>h</sup> ap ixt ulman k <sup>h</sup> upá                                                   |
| 13:19                     | John Marr                         | JM: the Thunderer                                                                                          |
| 13:20              | Joe Peter                  | JP: <<siyawin>> yaḵka ukuk [Note: (syuwyuwən) wonderous supernatural being Upper Chehalis]**            |
| 13:23                     | John Marr                         | JM: who was fishing with a dipnet                                                                          |
| 13:26              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka hayu yaka hayu-mamuk tənəs-samən/ k <sup>h</sup> upa dipnet                                       |
| 13:33                     | John Marr                         | JM: take me across                                                                                         |
| 13:36              | Joe Peter                  | JP: mamuk-ṭatwa nay../ mash nayka inatay                                                                   |
| 13:40                     | John Marr                         | JM: grandfather                                                                                            |
| 13:41              | Joe Peter                  | JP: <ukuk> chupa                                                                                           |
| 13:43                     | John Marr                         | JM: the monster pursues me                                                                                 |
| 13:45              | Joe Peter                  | JP: ukuk skukúm yaka/ nanich k <sup>h</sup> upa nayka                                                      |
| 13:50                     | John Marr                         | JM: who is your uncle                                                                                      |
| 13:53              | Joe Peter                  | JP: ṭaksta ukuk mayka chupa                                                                                |

|       |           |                                                                       |
|-------|-----------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | JM: take me across brother                                            |
| 13:57 | Joe Peter | JP: mayka mamuk-inatay nayka aw                                       |
| 14:01 | John Marr | JM: who is your brother                                               |
| 14:03 | Joe Peter | JP: ʔaksta ukuk mayka aw                                              |
| 14:05 | John Marr | JM: in the stern of the canoe                                         |
| 14:08 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk kʰimt'a kʰupa yaka kənim                                     |
| 14:23 | John Marr | JM: was an old woman                                                  |
| 14:25 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk [lamiyey] [lamiyay]                                          |
| 14:27 | John Marr | JM: whose body was full of scabs                                      |
| 14:30 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka <<uk>> iʔwəl kʰanawi patʔ <kʰupa-ukuk>/ tənəs-sik            |
| 14:35 | John Marr | JM: oh please take me across father-in-law                            |
| 14:39 | Joe Peter | JP: ooo// <<...>> ʔush mayka mamuk-inatay nayka papa pinayka mama |
| 14:47 | John Marr | JM: why didn't you say that before                                    |
| 14:50 | Joe Peter | JP: qʰata wik mayka wawa kakwa iləp                                   |
| 14:53 | John Marr | JM: then he took him across                                           |
| 14:55 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka mamuk-inatay yaxka                                      |
| 13:56 | John Marr |                                                                       |
| 14:58 | John Marr | JM: quick/ go into my house                                           |
| 15:00 | Joe Peter | JP: ayaq ʔatwa kʰupa nayka haws                                       |
| 15:02 | John Marr | JM: then he went in                                                   |
| 15:03 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka ʔatwa kʰupa haws                                             |
| 15:05 | John Marr | JM: the old man stayed in his canoe                                   |
| 15:07 | Joe Peter | JP: ulman yaka miʔayt kʰupa yaka kənim                                |
| 15:11 | John Marr | JM: after a little while                                              |
| 15:14 | Joe Peter | JP: tənəs-anqati/ tənəs-aʔqi                                          |
| 15:17 | John Marr | JM: the monster arrived at the river                                  |
| 15:19 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku alta ukuk skukúm                                       |
| 15:21 | John Marr | JM: and said to the old man                                           |
| 15:23 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa kʰupa ukuk ulman                                        |
| 15:25 | John Marr | JM: did you see the one whom I'm chasing                              |
| 15:28 | Joe Peter | JP: mayka nanich nayk.. ukuk nayka hayu-nanich                        |
| 15:31 | John Marr | JM: I did not see him                                                 |
| 15:32 | Joe Peter | JP: <<ulman>> yaka wawa weyk                                          |

|       |           |                                                                                                                   |
|-------|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | JM: quick/ take me across                                                                                         |
| 15:36 | Joe Peter | JP: ayaq/ mamuk-inatay nayka                                                                                      |
| 15:39 | John Marr | JM: I will give you my hat                                                                                        |
| 15:40 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka patṭach mayka nayka siyapuṭ                                                                             |
| 15:43 | John Marr | JM: what shall I do with a hat                                                                                    |
| 15:45 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta nayka mamuk [Note: break in audio]                                                                       |
| 15:46 | John Marr | JM: I'll give you my/ my cane                                                                                     |
| 15:48 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka patṭach nayka/ na.. n.. patṭach mayka nayka// stik                                                      |
| 15:55 | John Marr | JM: what shall I do with a cane                                                                                   |
| 15:57 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta nayka mamuk k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk stik                                                                 |
| 16:00 | John Marr | JM: I will give you my blanket                                                                                    |
| 16:02 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka patṭach mayka nayka pasisi                                                                              |
| 16:06 | John Marr | JM: what shall I do with a blanket                                                                                |
| 16:08 | Joe Peter | JP: ikta nayka mamuk k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk pasisi                                                               |
| 16:11 | John Marr | JM: I will give you this twine                                                                                    |
| 16:13 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka patṭach mayka ukuk tənəs lup-lup [Note: unusual duplicated form]                                        |
| 15:35 | John Marr |                                                                                                                   |
| 16:16 | John Marr | JM: this he accepted                                                                                              |
| 16:19 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk yaka iskam                                                                                               |
| 16:21 | John Marr | JM: then/ then the Thunderer                                                                                      |
| 16:23 | Joe Peter | JP: alta uk.. ukuk ixt/ ya.. ukuk ixt hayash paya/ kəlakəla                                                       |
| 16:30 | John Marr | JM: stretched his leg<s> across the river                                                                         |
| 16:32 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka/ yaka mash yaka  lep <sup>h</sup> iyē  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi] inatay k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk/ chək        |
| 16:38 | John Marr | JM: walk across over my leg<s>                                                                                    |
| 16:42 | Joe Peter | JP: cha../ mayka ṭatwa k <sup>h</sup> upa nayka  lep <sup>h</sup> iyē  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi]/ inatay              |
| 16:47 | John Marr | JM: but take care that you do not strike it with your cane                                                        |
| 16:50 | Joe Peter | JP: bət mayka ṭush-nanich wik mayka q'wəṭ k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk stik                                            |
| 16:54 | John Marr | JM: now the monster walked over his leg                                                                           |
| 16:57 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ukuk skukúm yaka ṭatwa k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka  lep <sup>h</sup> iyē  [lip <sup>h</sup> yi] ṭatwa inatay |
| 17:01 | John Marr | JM: when he was in the middle of the river                                                                        |
| 17:04 | Joe Peter | JP: yakaaa/ chakuuu// katsaq/ k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk chək                                                        |

|       |           |                                                                                          |
|-------|-----------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|       |           | JM: he struck it with his cane                                                           |
| 17:12 | Joe Peter | JP: ya<ka> q'wəɬ kʰupa yaka stik                                                         |
| 17:15 | John Marr | JM: then the Thunderer bent his leg                                                      |
| 17:17 | Joe Peter | JP: <alta uk>/ ukuk/ ukuk paya- mæn  [man] yaka mamuk-/ k'ilapay yaka  lepʰiye  [lipʰyi] |
| 17:23 | John Marr | JM: the monster fell into the water                                                      |
| 17:25 | Joe Peter | JP: <<...>> ukuk skukúm yaka t'ɬux kʰupa chək                                            |
| 17:29 | John Marr | JM: and dif.. drifted down toward the sea                                                |
| 17:32 | Joe Peter | JP: yakaaa ɬatwa ɬatwa kikwəli <kʰupa-> ukuk chək/ <{uh}> kʰupa hayash-chək yawa/ sayá   |
| 17:40 | John Marr | JM: his hat fell down and drifted down after him                                         |
| 17:43 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka siyapuɬ t'ɬux kʰupá <ma..>/ chaku-kʰimt'a kʰupa yaxka                           |
| 17:49 | John Marr | JM: then the Thunderer                                                                   |
| 17:51 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk paya-man                                                                        |
| 17:54 | John Marr | JM: said                                                                                 |
| 17:58 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa                                                                            |
| 17:11 | John Marr |                                                                                          |
| 17:59 | John Marr | JM: noise of the surf will be your name                                                  |
| 18:02 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk <hay..> ukuk hayash-wawa kʰupa hayash-chək aɬqi mayka/ nim                      |
| 18:09 | John Marr | JM: only when the storm is raging you will be heard [pg. 33]                             |
| 18:13 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit kʰupa ukuk hayu-win pi snas aɬqi <mamuk-> kəmtəks mayka                       |
| 18:22 | John Marr | JM: when the weather is very bad                                                         |
| 18:26 | Joe Peter | JP: uk<uk> masachi yaka san                                                              |
| 18:33 | John Marr | JM: your hat will also be heard                                                          |
| 18:35 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka siyapuɬ wəxt kəmtəks                                                            |
| 18:38 | John Marr | JM: then the Thunderer went home                                                         |
| 18:41 | Joe Peter | JP: <<ya.. alta>> ukuk paya-man yaka ɬatwa-k'ilapay/ kʰupa yaka haws                     |
| 18:46 | John Marr | JM: they lived there for some time                                                       |
| 18:48 | Joe Peter | JP: ɬaska miɬayt kʰupá/  leyley  [lili]                                                  |
| 18:52 | John Marr | JM: the young man did not like his wife                                                  |

|                           |                                   |                                                                                                                                                                 |
|---------------------------|-----------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|                           |                                   | JP: ukuk tənəs- mæn  [man] wik yaka tiki yaka tuchmən                                                                                                           |
| 19:02                     | John Marr                         | JM: oh after several days                                                                                                                                       |
| 19:08              | Joe Peter                  | JP: k <sup>h</sup> upá  q <sup>h</sup> əntsix   sæn  [san] [Note: dialect alternate for q <sup>h</sup> əntsi?]                                                  |
| 19:10                     | John Marr                         | JM: she arose early and went to bathe                                                                                                                           |
| 19:13              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka miṭayt yaka tətwa wash k <sup>h</sup> upa-ukuk chək                                                                                                    |
| 19:19                     | John Marr                         | JM: then he saw that she had become a beautiful woman                                                                                                           |
| 19:26              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka nanich yaka chaku hayash tush-kupa-nanich tuchmən                                                                                                      |
| 19:30                     | John Marr                         | JM: now they continued to live there                                                                                                                            |
| 19:34              | Joe Peter                  | JP: alta taska miṭayt k <sup>h</sup> upá                                                                                                                        |
| 19:36                     | John Marr                         | JM: it grew dark                                                                                                                                                |
| 19:38              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka chaku pulak <sup>h</sup> li                                                                                                                            |
| 19:40                     | John Marr                         | JM: now/ when he tried to touch her                                                                                                                             |
| 19:44              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka tiki iskam yaxka                                                                                                                                       |
| 19:46                     | John Marr                         | JM: she rolled her blanket around herself                                                                                                                       |
| 19:50              | Joe Peter                  | JP: yaka mamuk-k'ilapay-k'ilapay yaka/                                                                                                                          |
| 18:5519:56 | Joe PeterJohn Marr | JM: she took revenge on him                                                                                                                                     |
| 19:58              | Joe Peter                  | JP: pas.. pasisi k <sup>h</sup> upa yaxka <k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk> <<...>> yaka mamuk/ -k'aw k <sup>h</sup> upa yak.. k <sup>h</sup> upa yaxka/ mamuk-k'ilapay |
| 20:08                     | John Marr                         | JM: but after a while they began to like each other                                                                                                             |
| 20:10              | Joe Peter                  | JP: aṭqi taska chaku-tiki k <sup>h</sup> anumakwst                                                                                                              |
| 20:13                     | John Marr                         | JM: the Thunderer used to go whaling every day                                                                                                                  |
| 20:17              | Joe Peter                  | JP: ukuk paya-man yaka tətwa [static break]/ ukuk hayash-samən kwanisəm/ k <sup>h</sup> anawi-san                                                               |
| 20:27                     | John Marr                         | JM: the young man said                                                                                                                                          |
| 20:28              | Joe Peter                  | JP: ukuk// ukuk tənəs-man yaka wawa                                                                                                                             |
| 20:33                     | John Marr                         | JM: I shall look on when my father-in-law goes whaling                                                                                                          |
| 20:36              | Joe Peter                  | JP: nayka nanich <taska> [audio ends]                                                                                                                           |
|                           |                                   |                                                                                                                                                                 |