

Joe Peter Project: 694-S1

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                              | Research Notes              |
|-------|------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------|
| 00:20 | John Marr        | JM: he reached still another prairie                                       | [JM-Notes] [NOTE] (pg. 170) |
| 00:22 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka ɬax kʰupa ixt ɬush-iliʔi                                          |                             |
| 00:25 | John Marr        | JM: the third one                                                          |                             |
| 00:26 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk ɬun                                                               |                             |
| 00:28 | John Marr        | JM: one half of it burned                                                  |                             |
| 00:30 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt sitkum ukuk paya yaka {on} paya                                    |                             |
| 00:33 | John Marr        | JM: he took one of his buckets and emptied it                              |                             |
| 00:35 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt yaka kitɬən yaka iskam pi yaka mamuk uk/wax kʰanawi            |                             |
| 00:40 | John Marr        | JM: he took one more bucket and emptied half of it                         |                             |
| 00:42 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka iskam ixt yaka/ kitɬən yaka mamuk-waxsitkum                   |                             |
| 00:47 | John Marr        | JM: then he reached the woods on one other side of the prairie             |                             |
| 00:50 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka ɬatwa limulo {stik} yawa inataykʰupa uk ɬush-iliʔi       |                             |
| 00:55 | John Marr        | JM: now he had only two buckets and one-half left                          |                             |
| 00:58 | Joe Peter | JP: alta kʰupit makwst pi sitkum yaka/ chək/ kʰupá                         |                             |
| 01:02 | John Marr        | JM: he reached another prairie which was almost totally on fire            |                             |
| 01:06 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka q'uʔ kʰupa ixt ɬush-iliʔi alta wik-sayakʰanawi yaka paya ukuk |                             |
| 01:11 | John Marr        | JM: he took one half a bucket and emptied it                               |                             |
| 01:14 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka iskam sitkum yaká kitɬən yakamamuk-wax ukuk                   |                             |
| 01:18 | John Marr        | JM: he took one more bucket                                                |                             |
| 01:19 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt wəxt yaka kitɬən yaka iskam                                        |                             |
| 01:22 | John Marr        | JM: now only one bucket was left                                           |                             |
| 01:25 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit ixt yaka kitɬən alta miɬayt                                     |                             |
| 01:28 | John Marr        | JM: he reached another prairie                                             |                             |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                 | Research Notes                           |
|-------|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 01:30 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka q'uʔ wəxt kʰupá ixt ʔush-iliʔi                                       |                                          |
| 01:33 | John Marr | JM: which was all on fire                                                     |                                          |
| 01:35 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰanawi <alta> ukuk <yaka> paya                                           |                                          |
| 01:37 | John Marr | JM: he poured out his bucket                                                  |                                          |
| 01:39 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wəx alta wəxt ukuk kitʔən                                            |                                          |
| 01:42 | John Marr | JM: when he nearly came across, he emptied his bucket                         |                                          |
| 01:46 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wik-saya chaku-inatay yawa alta yaka kʰanawi alta yaka chək yaka wəx |                                          |
| 01:51 | John Marr | JM: he took off his bear {skin} blanket and beat the fire                     |                                          |
| 01:54 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka <munk/mamuk>-ʔax ukuk yaka pasisi alta pi yaka p'əq-p'əq ukuk paya   |                                          |
| 01:59 | John Marr | JM: the whole bear {skin} blanket was burnt                                   |                                          |
| 02:01 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk/ it/ ukuk itsxut-pasisi alta kʰanawi yaka chaku-paya                 |                                          |
| 02:05 | John Marr | JM: his hair caught fire                                                      |                                          |
| 02:09 | Joe Peter | JP: yaká/ yaqsu kʰanawi chaku-paya                                            |                                          |
| 02:12 | John Marr | JM: and he was burnt                                                          |                                          |
| 02:14 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku-paya yaxka                                                |                                          |
| 02:16 | John Marr | JM: now that bird was dead                                                    |                                          |
| 02:18 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka miməlus ukuk kəlákəla                                           | [JP-Notes] [LING]  miməlus  [[miməlust]] |
| 02:21 | John Marr | JM: when it was growing dark he came to his sister                            |                                          |
| 02:25 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku-pulakʰli <alta> yaka q'uʔ kʰupa yaka ats                  |                                          |
| 02:28 | John Marr | JM: ah, my brother is dead                                                    |                                          |
| 02:30 | Joe Peter | JP: alta uk nayka aw yaka miməlust                                            |                                          |
| 02:37 | John Marr | JM: she said to him                                                           |                                          |
| 02:39 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa kʰupa yaxka                                                     |                                          |
| 02:50 | John Marr | JM: now all the things you said you see are not true                          |                                          |

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                                                                                      | Research Notes |
|-------|------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| 02:54 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ukuk k <sup>h</sup> anawi-ikta mayka wawa mayka nanich alta wik yaka kakwa-dlet                                           |                |
| 02:59 | John Marr        | JM: these are not the same canoes he said                                                                                          |                |
| 03:03 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa k <sup>h</sup> anawi ukuk k <sup>h</sup> anim wik yaḵka ukuk k <sup>h</sup> anim, ḵluyma ṭaska                       |                |
| 03:08 | John Marr        | JM: the others had holes and were moss grown                                                                                       |                |
| 03:11 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk <ixt> ya/ ukuk ḵluyma yaka miṭayt ṭḵwap-ṭḵwap k <sup>h</sup> anawi                                                        |                |
| 03:16 | John Marr        | JM: he said                                                                                                                        |                |
| 03:16 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa                                                                                                                      |                |
| 03:18 | John Marr        | JM: you are dead now therefore you see differently                                                                                 |                |
| 03:20 | Joe Peter | JP: mayka miməlust alta kakupu mayka nanich ḵluyma                                                                                 |                |
| 03:24 | John Marr        | JM: now she carried her brother across to the other side                                                                           |                |
| 03:28 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka <hal> k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka aw yawa inatay                                                                         |                |
| 03:32 | John Marr        | JM: he saw the people                                                                                                              |                |
| 03:34 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka nanich ukuk tilixam                                                                                                       |                |
| 03:36 | John Marr        | JM: they sang they played ihtlukum                                                                                                 |                |
| 03:38 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka nanich ukuk tilixam ṭaska hayu-iṭkuma alta yawa                                                                          |                |
| 03:43 | John Marr        | JM: they played dice with beaver teeth                                                                                             |                |
| 03:46 | Joe Peter | JP: ṭaska hayu-hihi k <sup>h</sup> upa-ukuk anqati ina yaka lita                                                                   |                |
| 03:50 | John Marr        | JM: the women played their ihtlukum                                                                                                |                |
| 03:54 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk ṭuchmən ṭaska iṭkuma wəḵt                                                                                                 |                |
| 03:56 | John Marr        | JM: they played hoops                                                                                                              |                |
| 03:58 | Joe Peter | JP: ṭaska mamuk ṭaska mamuk/ -hihi k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk luʔluʔ {stik}                                                           |                |
| 04:03 | John Marr        | JM: they played dice with 10 disks                                                                                                 |                |
| 04:05 | Joe Peter | JP: ṭaska ṭaska mamuk wəḵt/ ṭaska mamuk-hihi <<ukuk k <sup>h</sup> upa uk taṭlam {um} mamuk..ukuk luʔ/ luʔluʔ yaka>> lita <uk> ina |                |

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                                          | Research Notes                |
|-------|------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------|
| 04:13 | John Marr        | JM: they played wakak <sup>h</sup> uyi/ waka/ k <sup>h</sup> uyi/ it's a game          |                               |
| 04:30 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska mamuk-hihi ukuk wagak <sup>h</sup> uyi                                       |                               |
| 04:34 | John Marr        | JM: further on there they sang the conjurer's song                                     |                               |
| 04:39 | Joe Peter | JP: tənəs-saya yawa kikwəli †aska mamuk {sing} ukuk paya ukuk paya yaka <wawa/aw>      |                               |
| 04:46 | John Marr        | JM: he wanted to go to these singers                                                   |                               |
| 04:51 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka tiki †atwa <k <sup>h</sup> upa-ukuk> q <sup>h</sup> a †aska hayu mamuk {sing} |                               |
| 04:54 | John Marr        | JM: he tried to shout                                                                  |                               |
| 04:56 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka tiki k <sup>h</sup> liyi                                                      |                               |
| 04:58 | John Marr        | JM: but he was laughed at                                                              |                               |
| 04:59 | Joe Peter | JP: bət k <sup>h</sup> anawi †aska ma<m>uk-hihi yaḡka                                  |                               |
| 05:02 | John Marr        | JM: he went to his brother-in-law's house                                              |                               |
| 05:05 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka †atwa k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka <<...>> yaka aw yaka {haws} yawa                | [JP-Notes] [?] [NOTE] stutter |
| 05:10 | John Marr        | JM: their chief was his sister's husband                                               |                               |
| 05:13 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka tayi yaka ats yaka {man}                                                      |                               |
| 05:42 | John Marr        | JM: there was the panther                                                              |                               |
| 05:45 | Joe Peter | JP: yaḡka ukuk k <sup>h</sup> upá uk/ ukuk swawa?                                      |                               |
| 05:51 | John Marr        | JM: he was an elk hunter                                                               |                               |
| 05:55 | Joe Peter | JP: ya<x>ka dlet kəmtəks mamuk-kakshət mu/ mulak                                       |                               |
| 05:58 | John Marr        | JM: every day he went hunting                                                          |                               |
| 06:00 | Joe Peter | JP: k <sup>h</sup> anawi san yaka †atwa nanich                                         |                               |
| 06:03 | John Marr        | JM: one day he found the branch of a spruce tree                                       |                               |
| 06:07 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt/ ixt san yaka t'†ap ukuk/ uk<uk> lima-{stik} <ukuk> hayash {stik} yawa         |                               |
| 06:14 | John Marr        | JM: he twisted it and threw it under his bed                                           |                               |
| 06:17 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-†uk uk {stik} ya<<ka>> mash kikwəli k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka bit         |                               |
| 06:20 | John Marr        | JM: it was a pretty branch                                                             |                               |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                                                                        | Research Notes |
|-------|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| 06:22 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk hayash †ush k <sup>h</sup> upa nanich                                                                                       |                |
| 06:24 | John Marr | JM: then he said                                                                                                                     |                |
| 06:26 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka wawa                                                                                                                   |                |
| 06:28 | John Marr | JM: oh I wish you would become a {man}                                                                                               |                |
| 06:30 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> ata/ q <sup>h</sup> ata <pi> wik mayka chaku-{man}mayka                                                       |                |
| 06:34 | John Marr | JM: the next day he went elk hunting                                                                                                 |                |
| 06:37 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt ixt san wəxt yaka †atwa yawa yaka nanichmulak                                                                            |                |
| 06:41 | John Marr | JM: In the evening he came home                                                                                                      |                |
| 06:43 | Joe Peter | JP: chaku pulak <sup>h</sup> li yaka chaku {haws}                                                                                    |                |
| 06:46 | John Marr | JM: now he saw cedar bark lying on the ground                                                                                        |                |
| 06:49 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka nanich ukuk kənim-{stik} k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka{haws} mi†ayt k <sup>h</sup> upa iliʔi                             |                |
| 06:54 | John Marr | JM: where do those people come from                                                                                                  |                |
| 06:57 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> a †aska chaku uk<uk> tilixam                                                                                      |                |
| 07:00 | John Marr | JM: they have been playing at disks, he said                                                                                         |                |
| 07:04 | Joe Peter | JP: †aska hayu-hihi/ †aska hayu-hihi k <sup>h</sup> upa ukuk<miməlust>                                                           |                |
| 07:09 | John Marr | JM: on the following morning he went again, elkhunting                                                                           |                |
| 07:17 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk ixt tənəs-san wəxt yaka †atwa-nanichmulak                                                                               |                |
| 07:21 | John Marr | JM: in the evening he came home                                                                                                      |                |
| 07:24 | Joe Peter | JP: tənəs-pulak <sup>h</sup> li alta yaka chaku {haws} chakuk'ilapay                                                             |                |
| 07:43 | John Marr | JM: now the floor of his house lay full of cedar bark                                                                                |                |
| 07:46 | Joe Peter | JP: alta <wəxt> <<...>> kikwəli yaka chakuk <sup>h</sup> upá q <sup>h</sup> a pat† <yaka ikta yaka/ mamuk ukuk>{skin}-{stik} |                |
| 07:54 | John Marr | JM: and counters lay there                                                                                                           |                |
| 07:56 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk c'həm hayu-hayu k <sup>h</sup> upá yaka mi†ayt                                                                              |                |
| 07:59 | John Marr | JM: he went out for a fourth time                                                                                                    |                |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                              | Research Notes                                                         |
|-------|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 08:01 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka †atwa lakt alta                                                           |                                                                        |
| 08:04 | John Marr | JM: he came home late in the afternoon                                                     |                                                                        |
| 08:06 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku hayash-lili k <sup>h</sup> upa/ mash si<...>                                | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] audio cutoff/break in audio                          |
| 08:10 | John Marr | JM: when he reached his house he heard batons                                              |                                                                        |
| 08:12 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka <q'u?> k <sup>h</sup> upa yaka {haws} yaka hayu/ hayu-kəmtəks <uk hayu> x̣luyma   |                                                                        |
| 08:17 | John Marr | JM: then he became angry                                                                   |                                                                        |
| 08:18 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku saliks                                                                 |                                                                        |
| 08:20 | John Marr | JM: where do these people come from?                                                       |                                                                        |
| 08:22 | Joe Peter | JP: q <sup>h</sup> a †aska chaku ukuk tilixam                                              |                                                                        |
| 08:24 | John Marr | JM: they always play at disks in my house                                                  |                                                                        |
| 08:27 | Joe Peter | JP: k <sup>h</sup> anawi-san ukuk <kaqəpu†> †aska hihi k <sup>h</sup> upa nayka {haws}     | [JP-Notes] [OTL] q'p <sup>h</sup> uu†- Yakama word for round/spherical |
| 08:31 | John Marr | JM: he heard the noise in the house                                                        |                                                                        |
| 08:34 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka kəmtəks ukuk hayá k <sup>h</sup> upa {haws}                                       |                                                                        |
| 08:37 | John Marr | JM: and the batons stopped                                                                 |                                                                        |
| 08:39 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk yaka aw kakwa †un                                                                 | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] doesn't match with JM prompt                         |
| 08:41 | John Marr | JM: he arrived at home and entered                                                         |                                                                        |
| 08:45 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka/ <q <sup>h</sup> u/chaku k <sup>h</sup> upa> yaka {haws} yaka †atwa               |                                                                        |
| 08:49 | John Marr | JM: now counters lay on a plank                                                            |                                                                        |
| 08:52 | Joe Peter | JP: alta k <sup>h</sup> upá <ukuk> yaka mi†ayt k <sup>h</sup> upa ləplash                  |                                                                        |
| 08:55 | John Marr | JM: he said                                                                                |                                                                        |
| 08:56 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wawa                                                                              |                                                                        |
| 08:58 | John Marr | JM: tomorrow I shall hide and see where these people come from                             |                                                                        |
| 09:01 | Joe Peter | JP: tumala a†qi nayka ipsət yawa na...nayka nanich q <sup>h</sup> a uk tilixam †aska chaku |                                                                        |
| 09:06 | John Marr | JM: the next morning he went out                                                           |                                                                        |
| 09:09 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk wəxt tənəs-san yaka †atwa †axani                                                  |                                                                        |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                          | Research Notes                                            |
|-------|-----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------|
| 09:12 | John Marr | JM: he stayed/ he stayed near the grass near the house                                 |                                                           |
| 09:15 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka wik/ yaka miṭayt kʰupá wik-saya kʰupa tipsu kʰupa ukuk {haws}                 |                                                           |
| 09:20 | John Marr | JM: and looked                                                                         |                                                           |
| 09:20 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka nanich                                                                        |                                                           |
| 09:22 | John Marr | JM: he did not see anybody                                                             |                                                           |
| 09:23 | Joe Peter | JP: wik-ikta yaka nanich                                                               |                                                           |
| 09:26 | John Marr | JM: then he heard the batons/                                                          | [JM-Notes] [NOTE] break in audio                          |
| 09:27 | Joe Peter | JP: <...> kəmtəks ukuk <haya>/<...> ikta <hayám wəxt> kʰupa {haws}                     | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] breaks in audio                         |
| 09:31 | John Marr | JM: he went home and looked through a hole in the wall                                 |                                                           |
| 09:34 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka ṭatwa kʰupá pi yaka nanich kʰupa ukuk ṭxwap/ yaka liplash                     |                                                           |
| 09:39 | John Marr | JM: now there was a youth who was playing at disks                                     |                                                           |
| 09:43 | Joe Peter | JP: now alta kʰupá ukuk ixt tənəs-{man} ṭaska hayu<-s/>-hihi kʰupá                     |                                                           |
| 09:54 | John Marr | JM: my brother calls me a branch of a spruce                                           |                                                           |
| 09:57 | Joe Peter | JP: <uk/> ukuk nayka aw yaka mash kʰupa nayka lima-{stik} <ya> wawa uk {nim} uk {stik} |                                                           |
| 10:02 | John Marr | JM: my brother twisted me often                                                        |                                                           |
| 10:04 | Joe Peter | JP: <...> nayka aw yaka mamuk                                                          | [JP-Notes] [?] [Note] sounds like something repeated?     |
| 10:08 | John Marr | JM: then the panther entered                                                           |                                                           |
| 10:15 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk swawa yaka chaku-{haws} alta                                                  |                                                           |
| 10:18 | John Marr | JM: oh my poor brother, why do you hide yourself before me?                            |                                                           |
| 10:22 | Joe Peter | JP: ná nayka aw qʰata-<pi/pus> mayka mamuk-ipsət mayka <<hayu>> kʰupa nayka            | [JP-Notes] [LING] [TEX] Use of the "na" question particle |
| 10:27 | John Marr | JM: then the youth was ashamed                                                         |                                                           |
| 10:29 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk/ ukuk tənəs-{man} yaka hayash-shim alta                                       |                                                           |

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                                              | Research Notes |
|-------|------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| 10:32 | John Marr        | JM: he remained there                                                                      |                |
| 10:33 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka miṭayt kʰupá                                                                      |                |
| 10:35 | John Marr        | JM: now the panther gave him good arrows                                                   |                |
| 10:38 | Joe Peter | JP: alta alta ukuk hayas swawa patṭach yaṣka hayash ṭush ka/ kalaytən                      |                |
| 10:43 | John Marr        | JM: and the boy went hunting deer                                                          |                |
| 10:49 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ukuk tənəs {man} yaka ṭatwa nanich-mawich                                         |                |
| 10:52 | John Marr        | JM: then the panther said to his younger brother                                           |                |
| 10:56 | Joe Peter | JP: <hmm alta> ukuk swawa yaka wawa kʰupa yaka tənəs-aw                                    |                |
| 10:59 | John Marr        | JM: go only this way, do not go down the river                                             |                |
| 11:03 | Joe Peter | JP: mayka ṭatwa yakwa wik mayka ṭatwa yawa say-kikwəli kʰupa uk chək                    |                |
| 11:08 | John Marr        | JM: he obeyed and only went up the river                                                   |                |
| 11:11 | Joe Peter | JP: pi alta ya kəmtəks pi yaka ṭatwa kʰupa saṣali kʰupa ukuk chək                          |                |
| 11:15 | John Marr        | JM: he grew up                                                                             |                |
| 11:17 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku-hayash                                                                      |                |
| 11:18 | John Marr        | JM: one day, however, he went down the river                                               |                |
| 11:21 | Joe Peter | JP: ixt san <wəxt>/ ixt san/ ixt san alta yaka ṭatwa kikwəli <ukuk/kʰupa uk> chək          |                |
| 11:26 | John Marr        | JM: he came to a prairie where he found a chicken hawk                                     |                |
| 11:32 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka q'u? kʰupá kʰupa uk tənəs ṭush-ili?i qʰa ukuk/ miṭayt kəlákəla kəmtəks {mountain} |                |
| 11:38 | John Marr        | JM: he shouted                                                                             |                |
| 11:40 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka p'u                                                                               |                |
| 11:41 | John Marr        | JM: and hit it's wing                                                                      |                |
| 11:44 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka q'wəṭ kʰupa yaka/ lima yawa                                                       |                |
| 11:48 | John Marr        | JM: it fell down and ran jumping away                                                      |                |
| 11:51 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka t'ṭux yawa pi yaka ṭatwa/ wik-saya                                                |                |

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                                  | Research Notes                           |
|-------|------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 11:54 | John Marr        | JM: he chased it for a long distance                                           |                                          |
| 11:56 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-kuri saya yawa                                                  |                                          |
| 11:58 | John Marr        | JM: then he saw a house                                                        |                                          |
| 12:00 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka nanich uk {haws}                                                      |                                          |
| 12:02 | John Marr        | JM: the chicken hawk entered the same house                                    |                                          |
| 12:04 | Joe Peter | JP: <yawa/yaka> ukuk/ kəlákəla kəmtəks{mountain} yaka miṭayt kʰupa         |                                          |
| 12:09 | John Marr        | JM: then he went on slowly                                                     |                                          |
| 12:11 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka ṭatwa ṭawa                                                       |                                          |
| 12:13 | John Marr        | JM: he thought                                                                 |                                          |
| 12:15 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka təmtəm                                                                |                                          |
| 12:16 | John Marr        | JM: oh they will kill me, I had better turn back                               |                                          |
| 12:18 | Joe Peter | JP: alaxti ṭaska mamuk-miməlus nayka, ṭush<na> təmtəm <mamuk>-k'ilapay     | [JP-Notes] [LING]  miməlus  [[miməlust]] |
| 12:22 | John Marr        | JM: but I like my arrow so well                                                |                                          |
| 12:24 | Joe Peter | JP: nayka/ nayka hayash tiki nayka/ kala/ kalaytən                             |                                          |
| 12:28 | John Marr        | JM: I must go in                                                               |                                          |
| 12:30 | Joe Peter | JP: ṭush nayka ṭatwa kʰupá                                                     |                                          |
| 12:31 | John Marr        | JM: then he entered the house                                                  |                                          |
| 12:33 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka ṭatwa-nanich kʰupá                                               |                                          |
| 12:35 | John Marr        | JM: standing at the door                                                       |                                          |
| 12:37 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mitxwit yawa kʰupa lapʰot                                             |                                          |
| 12:39 | John Marr        | JM: the house was full of people who looked at hisarrow                    |                                          |
| 12:42 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰanawi <uk> tilixam ṭaska <yaka> patṭkʰupá yaka nanich yaka kalaytən  |                                          |
| 12:47 | John Marr        | JM: all the people looked at it                                                |                                          |
| 12:50 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰanawi ukuk tilixam ṭaska nanich ukuk                                     |                                          |
| 12:53 | John Marr        | JM: they gave the arrow to a bird who looked at it                             |                                          |
| 12:56 | Joe Peter | JP: ṭaska patṭæch ukuk kalaytən kʰupa uktənəs-{man}/ ixt {man} yaka nanich | [JP-Notes] [LING]  patṭæch  [[palach]]   |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                 | Research Notes                         |
|-------|-----------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| 13:01 | John Marr | JM: then the young {man} said                                                 |                                        |
| 13:03 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk/ ukuk tənəs-{man} yaka wawa                                          |                                        |
| 13:05 | John Marr | JM: give me my arrow                                                          |                                        |
| 13:07 | Joe Peter | JP: patʔæch nayka kalaytən                                                    | [JP-Notes] [LING]  patʔæch  [[palach]] |
| 13:09 | John Marr | JM: it is not your arrow, you bad {man}                                       |                                        |
| 13:12 | Joe Peter | JP: wik ukuk misayka, misayka kʰəltash <ukuk {man}>/ misayka mas<h>achi {man} |                                        |
| 13:17 | John Marr | JM: again the people looked at the arrow                                      |                                        |
| 13:20 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk tilixam ʔaska nanich <aʔqi uk> kalaytən                              |                                        |
| 13:23 | John Marr | JM: and they said                                                             |                                        |
| 13:25 | Joe Peter | JP: ʔaska wawa                                                                |                                        |
| 13:26 | John Marr | JM: to what chief may this arrow belong                                       |                                        |
| 13:30 | Joe Peter | JP: ʔaksta tayi <ya> ukuk kalaytən yaka/ miʔayt                               |                                        |
| 13:34 | John Marr | JM: it is a good arrow                                                        |                                        |
| 13:35 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk hayash ʔush kalaytən                                                 |                                        |
| 13:37 | John Marr | JM: and they gave it to the bird                                              |                                        |
| 13:40 | Joe Peter | JP: ʔaska patʔæch k'ilapay <kʰupa> ukuk kəlákəla                              | [JP-Notes] [LING]  patʔæch  [[palach]] |
| 13:43 | John Marr | JM: give me my double pointed arrow                                           |                                        |
| 13:46 | Joe Peter | JP: patʔæch nayka ukuk makwst nayka <<latet yak'isəʔ kʰanu-isəl>>             | [JP-Notes] [LING]  patʔæch  [[palach]] |
| 13:49 | John Marr | JM: we'll take it                                                             |                                        |
| 13:51 | Joe Peter | JP: nsayka <munk>/ -iskam ukuk                                                |                                        |
| 13:53 | John Marr | JM: then the young one/ young {man} rose and took it                          |                                        |
| 13:57 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ukuk ixt tənəs {man} yaka mitxwit yaka iskam                         |                                        |
| 14:00 | John Marr | JM: he shook himself                                                          |                                        |
| 14:02 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-iʔwəl yaʔka/ iʔwəli                                            |                                        |
| 14:05 | John Marr | JM: and his body was covered with dentalia                                    |                                        |
| 14:07 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka/ yaka/ yaka iʔwəli patʔ kʰupa ukuk hayu yak'isəʔ iktə                |                                        |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                                          | Research Notes                         |
|-------|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| 14:15 | John Marr | JM: then the chicken hawk who on entering the house assumed the shape of a woman followed the chief    |                                        |
| 14:21 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk/ ukuk kəlákəla yaka kəmtəks mauʔntilixam yaka chaku <<...>> alta yaka<<chaku-ɣluyma>> | [JP-Notes] [LING]  mauʔn  [[mountain]] |
| 14:28 | John Marr | JM: they went and went and went                                                                        |                                        |
| 14:31 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka ʔatwa                                                                                    |                                        |
| 14:32 | John Marr | JM: until he finally came to his older brother's house                                                 |                                        |
| 14:35 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka k'oʔ kʰupa ukuk ulman ya {haws}/ulman yaka aw                                        |                                        |
| 14:39 | John Marr | JM: he hid himself inside                                                                              |                                        |
| 14:41 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-ipsut yaɣka yawa ʔaɣani                                                                 |                                        |
| 14:44 | John Marr | JM: the old woman entered and did not see anybody                                                      |                                        |
| 14:47 | Joe Peter | JP: kʰupit ukuk lamiyay yaka ʔatwa {haws} piwik-ʔaksta yaka nanich                                 |                                        |
| 14:51 | John Marr | JM: she thought                                                                                        |                                        |
| 14:52 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka təmtəm                                                                                        |                                        |
| 14:54 | John Marr | JM: where may that youth have gone?                                                                    |                                        |
| 14:56 | Joe Peter | JP: qʰa, qʰa uk tənəs-tilixam ʔaska ʔatwa                                                              |                                        |
| 14:59 | John Marr | JM: in the evening the panther came home                                                               |                                        |
| 15:01 | Joe Peter | JP: alta tənəs-pulakʰli <ya> uk<uk> swawa yakachaku-k'ilapay                                       |                                        |
| 15:05 | John Marr | JM: now there was a woman/ in <t>his house                                                             |                                        |
| 15:08 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ukuk ʔuchmən kʰupá kʰúpà yaka {haws}                                                          |                                        |
| 15:11 | John Marr | JM: he thought                                                                                         |                                        |
| 15:12 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka təmtəm                                                                                        |                                        |
| 15:13 | John Marr | JM: certainly he went down the river                                                                   |                                        |
| 15:16 | Joe Peter | JP: nawitka <may> yaka ʔatwa k/ kikwəli kʰupaukuk chək                                             |                                        |
| 15:19 | John Marr | JM: then he married the woman                                                                          |                                        |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                              | Research Notes                                                      |
|-------|-----------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 15:21 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka miṭayt ṭuchmən/ iskam ṭuchmən kʰupá                                          |                                                                     |
| 15:24 | John Marr | JM: she thought                                                                            |                                                                     |
| 15:25 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka təmtəm                                                                            |                                                                     |
| 15:26 | John Marr | JM: when did that youth come home                                                          |                                                                     |
| 15:29 | Joe Peter | JP: qʰənchi yaxka uk tənəs-<{man}> yaka chaku-k'ilapay                                     |                                                                     |
| 15:32 | John Marr | JM: on the following day she searched for him                                              |                                                                     |
| 15:34 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk <...> hayash wəxt san yaka ṭatwa kʰupa yaxka                                      | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] possible audio break/jump between ukuk and hayash |
| 15:38 | John Marr | JM: she searched/ she turned over all the elk skins until it grew dark                     |                                                                     |
| 15:44 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-k'ilapay kʰanawi ukuk mulak yaka {{skin}} {until} <chaku/wik yaka> pulakʰli |                                                                     |
| 15:49 | John Marr | JM: she continued two days                                                                 |                                                                     |
| 15:50 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk kʰakwa makwst san                                                           |                                                                     |
| 15:53 | John Marr | JM: then she had finished all the skins on one side of the house                           |                                                                     |
| 15:56 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka mamuk-k'ilapay kʰanawi ukuk {skin} kʰupa-ixt kʰupa ukuk {haws}               |                                                                     |
| 16:00 | John Marr | JM: now she searched at the other side of the house                                        |                                                                     |
| 16:02 | Joe Peter | JP: <alta ixt wəxt yaxka/alta yaka> mamuk-k'ilapay, mamuk-k'ilapay kʰanawi                 |                                                                     |
| 16:07 | John Marr | JM: she turned over all the elk skins                                                      |                                                                     |
| 16:10 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-k'ilapay-k'ilapay kʰanawi                                                   |                                                                     |
| 16:13 | John Marr | JM: finally she found him                                                                  |                                                                     |
| 16:15 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka t'ṭap yaxka                                                                  |                                                                     |
| 16:17 | John Marr | JM: sleeping under the skins                                                               |                                                                     |
| 16:19 | Joe Peter | JP: <ya/ {uh}> musum, yaka musum {on} {top} {of} {a} ukuk/ {uh} pa/ pasisi                 |                                                                     |
| 16:23 | John Marr | JM: she took some grease and elk hoofs                                                     |                                                                     |
| 16:27 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka iskam <lulu> mulak yaka lipʰyi pi klis                                            |                                                                     |

| Time  | Speaker          | Transcription                                                                                                             | Research Notes                                                                         |
|-------|------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 16:32 | John Marr        | JM: she made a fire and roasted the hoofs                                                                                 |                                                                                        |
| 16:35 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk paya <alta> yaka mamuk-paya<alta> uk<uk>/ <uk> lip <sup>hi</sup> k <sup>h</sup> anawi                  |                                                                                        |
| 16:40 | John Marr        | JM: when they were done, she pounded them                                                                                 |                                                                                        |
| 16:42 | Joe Peter | JP: <yaka k <sup>h</sup> u>/ †aska k <sup>h</sup> upit <alta/ukuk> lep <sup>hi</sup> yiyaka mamuk-/ q'wə†-q'wə† †aska |                                                                                        |
| 16:48 | John Marr        | JM: she took some soot and mixed it with hair ofan elk's nose                                                         |                                                                                        |
| 16:51 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka iskam tunus/ tunus paya {stik} k <sup>h</sup> anawi<†i?il> <<{to} a†qi/alta mamuk-...>> k <sup>h</sup> upá   |                                                                                        |
| 16:58 | John Marr        | JM: now she mixed it with all/ everything else                                                                            |                                                                                        |
| 17:02 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka mamuk-k <sup>h</sup> anu/ k <sup>h</sup> anumakwst ukukk <sup>h</sup> upa k <sup>h</sup> anawi-ikta     |                                                                                        |
| 17:06 | John Marr        | JM: when it grew dark, he awoke                                                                                           |                                                                                        |
| 17:11 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku-pulak <sup>h</sup> li alta yaka chaku-mi†ayt                                                               |                                                                                        |
| 17:14 | John Marr        | JM: now his nostrils felt sore                                                                                            |                                                                                        |
| 17:16 | Joe Peter | JP: alta/ alta yaka                                                                                                       | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] Joe doesnt finish                                                    |
| 17:20 | John Marr        | JM: oh my younger brother                                                                                                 |                                                                                        |
| 17:21 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka chaku-sik yaka aw "o naykatunus-aw"                                                                     | [JP-Notes] [NOTE] Joe finishes previoussentence and continues with newsentence |
| 17:26 | John Marr        | JM: your nose is transformed into an elk's nose                                                                           |                                                                                        |
| 17:30 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk mayka muq <sup>h</sup> sin yaka chaku <mulak>yaka muq <sup>h</sup> sin kakwa                                 |                                                                                        |
| 17:34 | John Marr        | JM: oh my older brother                                                                                                   |                                                                                        |
| 17:36 | Joe Peter | JP: <o nax> ukuk nayka/ <aw/o> nayka aw                                                                                   |                                                                                        |
| 17:40 | John Marr        | JM: hoofs are growing on my feet                                                                                          |                                                                                        |
| 17:42 | Joe Peter | JP: <ukuk mulak yaka> lip <sup>hi</sup> yi ukuk/ chaku-hayashk <sup>h</sup> upa nayka lip <sup>hi</sup> yi            |                                                                                        |
| 17:47 | John Marr        | JM: I cannot help you                                                                                                     |                                                                                        |
| 17:50 | Joe Peter | JP: wik nayka <wik q <sup>h</sup> ata> pus nayka eylan mayka                                                              | [JP-Notes] [LING]  eylan  [[ye?lan]]                                                   |
| 17:54 | John Marr        | JM: on the following morning the elk skins arose                                                                          |                                                                                        |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                                                     | Research Notes                           |
|-------|-----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------|
| 17:57 | Joe Peter | JP: <alta uk> tənəs-san kʰanawi ukuk yaka mitxwit alta uk mulak yaka {skin}                       |                                          |
| 18:01 | John Marr | JM: and became elk                                                                                |                                          |
| 18:02 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka chaku-mulak alta kʰanawi                                                                 |                                          |
| 18:05 | John Marr | JM: the youth arose                                                                               |                                          |
| 18:08 | Joe Peter | JP: alta pus ʔaska mamuk-paya <taʔlam>                                                            |                                          |
| 18:11 | John Marr | JM: he became a spirit                                                                            |                                          |
| 18:16 | Joe Peter | JP: alta ya/ alta yaka chaku ukuk ɣluyma tilixam yawa miməlus-iliʔi                               | [JP-Notes] [LING]  miməlus  [[miməlust]] |
| 18:21 | John Marr | JM: and he went out                                                                               |                                          |
| 18:23 | Joe Peter | JP: alta yaka ʔatwa ʔaxani                                                                        |                                          |
| 18:25 | John Marr | JM: then all the elks arose and went into the woods                                               |                                          |
| 18:32 | Joe Peter | JP: alta kʰanawi ukuk mulak ʔaska mitxwit pi ʔaska ʔatwa yawa kʰupa {stik}                        |                                          |
| 18:37 | John Marr | JM: now the panther took the woman at her arm                                                     |                                          |
| 18:40 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk swawa yaka iskam ukuk ʔuchmən kʰupa yaka lima                                            |                                          |
| 18:45 | John Marr | JM: he carried her out of the house                                                               |                                          |
| 18:47 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka lulu yaka ʔaxani kʰupa ukuk {haws}                                                       |                                          |
| 18:50 | John Marr | JM: and shook her so that all her flesh fell down                                                 |                                          |
| 18:53 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mamuk-<ixwəl yaka xələl-xələl yaxka>> kʰanawi yaka itwəli yaka tʔux <yawa>               |                                          |
| 18:57 | John Marr | JM: he threw her down and said                                                                    |                                          |
| 18:59 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka mash yaxka kikwəli pi yaka wawa                                                          |                                          |
| 19:02 | John Marr | JM: your name shall be chicken-hawk                                                               |                                          |
| 19:04 | Joe Peter | JP: mayka/ mayka mamuk-<kələkəla> kəmtəks <{nim}> / <uk> kələkəla kəmtəks {mountain} kʰanawi-ikta |                                          |
| 19:10 | John Marr | JM: and from now on you will never make chiefs unhappy                                            |                                          |
| 19:14 | Joe Peter | JP: ukuk/ ukuk <<anqat pi>> hilu/ hilu-ʔaksta pus <mayka> mamuk sik-təmtəm                        |                                          |

| Time  | Speaker   | Transcription                                                        | Research Notes |
|-------|-----------|----------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------|
| 19:19 | John Marr | JM: when you see a snake, you shall eat it                           |                |
| 19:22 | Joe Peter | JP: pus mayka ma/ pus mayka nanich ukuk uləq<alta mayka məkʰmək> |                |
| 19:25 | John Marr | JM: my name will be panther                                          |                |
| 19:27 | Joe Peter | JP: yaka nayka {nim} <ukuk tənəs>-swawa                              |                |